

MUSIC

LISTEN TO THIS

Whether you're waking up with Gwen Stefani, working all day with Gorillaz, or chilling out at home with Beyoncé, these are the products you need to stay in a state of 24-hour audio bliss

BY JOSHUA GOLDMAN

Morning / 6:30 a.m.
Harman Multimedia JBL On Time

Full-function dual-alarm clock, iPod dock and charger, and all-around audio station, the On Time makes waking up in the morning something you'll actually want to do. Once you're up, the unit's tweeter and transducers create a 360-degree wall of sound, whether you're pumping tunes from your portable player, PC, or CD player. $299 @ HARMAN-MULTIMEDIA.COM

Breakfast / 7:30 a.m.
Bang & Olufsen BeoSound 1

Equal parts tech and art, the BeoSound 1 adds a backbeat to any meal you can cook up. The BeoSound's powerful three-way, closed-box loudspeaker makes music delivered from its built-in FM tuner or CD player sound incredible even at volumes loud enough to be heard over kitchen clatter.

$1,275 @ BANG-OLUFSEN.COM

Shower / 7 a.m.
Etón S350 Deluxe

Use your time in the shower to multitask, catching up with sports, news, and music from around the world with this retro-style field radio. The highly sensitive AM/FM/shortwave tuner pulls in 13 international broadcast bands and features a variety of tuning controls, helping keep signals crystal clear.

$150 @ ETONCORP.COM

Midday Workout/12 p.m.
iRiver T10

With its integrated sports clip, 45 hours of skip-free playback on one AA battery, one-gigabyte storage, and support for music-subscription services like Napster, the T10 is made for the gym or a run in the park. (Use the built-in FM tuner when you tire of your existing playlist.)

$199 @ IRIVERAMERICA.COM

Commute to work / 8 a.m.
Tivoli Audio iSongbook

We've been rocking our commute with an iPod since its inception—it is the portable jukebox. So, once you get into the office, dock it with the iSongbook to keep the music going. The magnetically shielded speakers provide excellent sound and won't pick up interference from your computer. And you can detach the second speaker for true stereo separation. $329 @ TIVOLIAUDIO.COM; IPOD (NOT SHOWN), $299-399 @ APPLE.COM

MUSIC

Lunchtime / 12:30 p.m.

Sony Ericsson W810

Want to take a call on your lunch break? Pass the time with tunes piped through the W810 Walkman mobile phone. When your call comes, the music stops (it plays once your call is finished). And since the phone supports a removable memory card capable of storing 150 songs, transferring music to the phone is a snap. $TK @SONYERICSSON.COM

Commute home / 6 p.m.

Alpine DVA-9861

When the DVA-9861 is in your dash, you might actually welcome a little traffic on the ride home. Listen to either XM or Sirius satellite radio, or play music from virtually any CD/MP3 format, or your iPod (via a simple single-cable connection). Whatever you choose, it all plays back in the highest-quality 5.1-channel audio with DTS, Dolby Digital, and Dolby Pro Logic II support. $650 @ALPINE-USA.COM

Relaxing at home / 7 p.m.

Buffalo Link Theater Mini Network Media Player

This small, simple black box with full-feature remote is a cheap and easy way to wirelessly send music, photos, and video trapped on your PC to any home-entertainment system. $99 @BUFFALOTECH.COM

Dinner and a movie / 8 p.m.

Onkyo CS-V720S

Nobody likes a show-off—except in this case. This Onkyo minisystem plays CDs, Super Audio CDs, MP3/WMA CDs, DVDs, and DVD-Audio. For the ultimate selection of mood music, the built-in, XM-ready tuner also provides subscription access to more than 150 channels, or you can add an optional iPod dock for remote control over your portable collection. $399 @US.ONKYO.COM

Bedtime / 10 p.m.

Polk Audio iSonic

The iSonic is one hot box for your bedroom, whether you're alone or with company. The tabletop high-definition radio pulls in digital AM/FM signals that are crisp and static-free. Or use the unit's XM satellite receiver with an optional antenna to get even more digital rhythms. A built-in CD/DVD player ups the ante further and the 360-degree stereo-sound speakers provide rich, room-filling sound no matter what the source. $599 @POLKAUDIO.COM

Record This

Three great ways to capture voice and live music

1

Olympus WS-320M

With one gig of storage, the WS-320M lets you save 277 hours of voice audio in stereo. $229 @OLYMPUS.COM

2

Belkin TuneTalk Stereo

Already got an iPod? Plug this in and record your own covert bootlegs. $59 @BELKIN.COM; IPOD (30GB), $299 @APPLE.COM

3

M-Audio MicroTrack

Basically a pocket recording studio, the MicroTrack records two-channel WAV and MP3 files, ready for drag-and-drop editing on your PC or Mac. $499 @M-AUDIO.COM